"MARCHETA" BILLED MARCH 31, APRIL 1

P. C. Takes Awards In Speech Tourney

Student Congress Ends Forensics Week

Pacific College was well represented at the Inter-Collegiate forensics contest held at Linfield College from March 13th to 15th. Of the eight students privileged to attend were two who placed first and one who placed second in the events. Arthur Roberts, a senior, took first place in men's extemporaneous speech, and also took second place in impromptu speaking. He was presented with a certificate of award which is to be kept by the Student Body. Jack Willcuts, another senior, took first place in men's oratory and was awarded a silver cup. Cups were not awarded in all events because of shortages due to war conditions.

The remaining P. C. representatives were: Herschel Thornburg, participating in the extemporaneous speech event, Harold Fowler, in the one-man debate contest, Mildred Haworth, in women's oratory, Charlotte Macy, in the interpretive reading, and Barbara Garrett and Paul Thornburg, in the debate contest. Representatives from college in California, Utah, Idaho, Washington and Oregon took part in the tournament.

Prof. Avery Resigns

Professor Ward Avery, head of the Music Department of Pacific College, resigned his duties here recently and left immediately for Southern California. He was suffering a severe nervous breakdown which followed short periods of illness.

Herschel Thornburg has been placed in charge of the Piano instruction and chorus, while Mrs. Rhea of McMinnville will teach the harmony and voice classes. Mrs. Mildred Colcord of Newberg has been secured for vocal instruction for the remainder of the year.

News Briefs

Eloise Fowler, a member of the Freshman Class, underwent an appendectomy Wednesday morning at the Willamette Hospital in Newberg. She is recovering nicely and will return to school in the near future.

Carroll Michener, former P. C. student now in C. P. S. work, spent a few days visiting friends and relatives in Newberg last week, before leaving for Connecticut, where he will enter detached service as a Dairy herd tester.

The Newberg Women's Auxiliary of Pacific College held their regular meeting in Canyon Hall on Friday, March 17. Mrs. Roberts served tea to the group following their business meeting.

Word was received here last Wednesday from Lt. Dean Tate, who was formerly listed as missing in action in the European War theatre, that he is safe in England and expects to return home in the near future.

Chester Bumbarger returned to school last Monday, after a week of illness.

Thanks to the initiative of the men of the faculty and several students, the wood working shop in the Science Building is almost completed. Although primarily for P. C. use, it is also to be used in connection with the youth program being sponsored by the Friends Church.

President Emmett Gulley will leave tomorrow for California in the interest of the College. He expects to return the end of this week.

Students Attend Party

P. C. students participated in a Saint Patrick's day, interdenominational, young people's party, held at the Newberg First Methodist Church on March 17th. There were about sixty young people present; denominations represented were Methodist, Christian, Baptist, and Friends. Highlights of the evening were a Virginia Reel, a "guessing game," ice cream and cake, and a devotional service. The service was opened by a group song fest and was followed by a duet. The evening closed as one of the Methodist girls gave the story of David walking the second mile and finding a friend.

Ashwill-Willcuts To Reign May Day

Betty Ashwill was elected on March 17, by popular vote of the masculine students of the college, as May Queen for the Bi-Annual May Day festival which is to be held this year. To reign with her is Jack Willcuts, who was chosen Cardinal by the women of the student body.

Betty and Jack will choose their court in the near future when further plans will be made for the event.

'44-'45 Officers Elected, Installed

Student Body officers for the '44-'45 school year were formally installed in office last Friday during the chapel period. Orrin Ogier, a Sophomore, will replace David Thomas as President. David moved up into the position last fall when Claude Lewis failed to return to school. Joyce Perisho replaces Geraldine Tharrington as Vice President, and Betty Ann Craven will fill the Secretary's position, which was held during the last year by Florence Swanson.

Other major officers installed were Wilma Archaubeau, Treasurer; Viola Nixon, Chief Treasurer; Mildred Haworth, Crescent Editor, and Herschel Thornburg, L'Ami Editor. Out-going officers were Jack Willcuts, Treasurer; Arthur Roberts, Chief Treasurer; Doris Manning, Crescent Editor, and Betty June Ruden and Geraldine Tharrington, L'Ami co-editors.

Results of the minor elections, which took place last Monday, were: Mr. Hoskins, Executive Advisor; Imogene Degner, Assistant Crescent Editor; Barbara Garrett, Business Manager; Evangeline Marx, Advertising Manager; Donna Heacock, Circulating Manager; Charlotte Macy, Business Manager; Don Bowers, Publicity Manager; Paul Thornburg, Forensics Manager; Ross Gulley, Property Manager; Vera Jones, Dramatics Manager; Everett Craven, Social Chairman; Mona Cowley, Secretary-Treasurer of Old Students; Don Brash, Representative of Student Loan. These officers will also begin their duties immediately.

Spanish Drama to Be Presented by Students

The Spring dramatics production, "Marcheta," is now ready for production, and performances will be given on the evenings of Friday, March 31, and Saturday, April 1.

This three-act romantic Drama, of Spanish setting, promises real thrills and entertainment to citizens of Newberg and the surrounding communities who will be privileged to attend on either of these nights.

This highly-praised play tells the dramatic story of a modern young California girl who suddenly comes into an inheritance of an old Spanish hacienda, belonging to her Spanish ancestors. Failing to realize the significance and meaning of her inheritance, she is about to sell the property when an old priest appears to tell her the story of her great aunt, Marcheta.

The first and last acts take place in the year 1937 in the garden of the old hacienda, while the second act takes the audience back just fifty years to the same scene when the intricacies of the plot were just beginning to unfold. An elaborate and colorful stage setting is being planned by the production staff. Authentic costumes will add much to the realism of the scenes.

The cast of characters includes the following: Marcheta, Betty Ann Craven; Dolores Montez, Betty Ann Roberts; Pedro, Allen Thomas; Isabella, Mary Frances Nordyke; Koss Hamilton and Juan Montez, Jack Willcuts; Carlos Cortez and Philippe Cortez, Paul Thornburg; Mrs. Florez, Florence Hadlock; Mr. McLean, Don Johnson; Mrs. Southmore. Head of Bible Dept. Back on Job

Professor Gervis Carey resumed his duties as head of the Bible Department on March 20th. He returned to us after a prolonged illness of virus pneumonia and flu, which confined him to his home for almost two months. When asked how he felt about returning and getting back in the swing of things, he said, "It feels natural to be back again, because next week will terminate forty years of church and school work, both as pastor and instructor. It will take more than two months to get out of touch with everything."

Contributions

Speaking of contributions, don't you think we freshmen have contributed a lot to campus life? (Well, if you won't admit it, we will). To say the least, dorm life would be dull without us. Who would upper classmen gossip about, order around, and last but not least, feel superior to? Then, too, in the field of conversation, we've added brilliant tidbits and juicy morsels of gossip that are truly contributions.

Where would the basketball team have been without freshmen (even if the majority did sit on the bench)? And just think what the man shortage would be without freshmen.. For that matter—where would anything be without freshmen?

But, please, don't mind us. We have to air our ego once in a while, and anyway, we don't really mean it. All kidding aside, there isn't a single freshman who hasn't thoroughly enjoyed his year at college, initiation week and all. A few minor inconveniences such as the aforementioned initiation week, having to answer telephones, running errands, and waiting until last to leave chapel, only add spice to life. We all really appreciate the opportunities and privileges that are ours in taking part in every phase of campus life and activity, and only hope that we may contribute as much to college life as have freshman classes of the past, and that the years to come will be as full of good things as this year has been.

Just a note thanking you all for contributing your time and energies to the publishing of this, the freshman edition of the Crescent, and a special note of thanks to Doris Manning, who acted as our advisor.

Freshman Editor,
Imogene Degner.

SO DUMB

Social Workers Visit Campus

Miss Jewett, a representative of the State Welfare Commission, and Miss Druschal, head of the Multnomah County Welfare Commission, were present on the campus for a few hours last Wednesday to talk to the Social Service students.

Miss Jewett and Miss Druschal spoke to the entire student body and faculty during the chapel hour. Miss Druschal, speaking first, gave an outline and a brief description of the Social Service work. Miss Jewett later gave a short speech on the opportunities offered in the Social Service field.

Following lunch, they spoke to a group of young people who are interested in, or planning to go into the field of Social work.

Recent Chapels

During the chapel hour on Monday, March 13, Mr. Moore spoke on the relationship of thinking and emotional life to action. He used as a background for his speech, the text, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

The following Wednesday, Miss Sutton gave a fascinating speech on the new wonder drug, penicillin. She briefly outlined the discovery of the drug, its uses and the methods by which it is grown.

Monday, March 20, the chapel hour was given over to David Jacquith. A gifted cartoonist and actor, he drew several amusing sketches and gave imitations of various characters.

Student Congress

ident of the event and Paul Thornburg elected as Sergeant-at-arms. The Vice President was a student from Northwest Nazarene College, and the clerk was a student from Linfield College.

The first bill passed, proposed by P. C. was a war-time prohibition bill and was attended by much discussion and lobbying. The second bill passed was one prohibiting smoking and drinking on inter-state transportation vehicles. This bill was proposed by Nampa. Four other bills, two of them having a decided P. C. flavor, were passed. These bills will be sent to our national Representatives in Washington, D. C.

The faculty sponsor of the P. C. group was Professor Lewis Hoskins.

Former Prof. Promoted

Alvin Allen, recently of Newberg, was named manager of the Yamhill county area of the U. S. Employment Service, effective March 1, it was announced this week. Mr. Allen, senior employment officer in the McMinnville office since last November, has been in charge of the local office since February 9, when Joseph D. Wilson, former manager, was advanced to the position of state supervisor of food processing and canning.

Ramblings

A sight for sore eyes . . . Doris Manning's colored glasses . . . but did you notice how she kept her eye on a certain ex-student!! It seems that Chet has had a high fever since the night Marx drove his car—wonder why?? We hear that someone finds the mortuary bench "a lovely place to spend an evening," but really, Paul, couldn't you find a livelier atmosphere?

Horn tooting is P. C.'s latest fad. Even the girls are taking it up—judging from what we hear. B. A. R. will be the world's next Harry James. At last Imogene is talking slower (but in Spanish). Naomi seems to be enjoying her independence. It probably won't last long. Last week's house-meeting was downright disgusting. It was all over in a half hour, and not one fellow was mentioned.

The gals were really left high and dry the other day—anyone knowing the whereabouts of the culprits who shut off the shower, please keep it to yourself. Thanks. Mil and Charlotte, it was thoughtful of you to practice your speeches in the canyon. Why don't some of our aspiring musicians follow your example?

Since Quincy met the little blonde nurse at the hospital, he's seriously thinking of becoming an M. D. A worthy cause—buying a teething ring for this week's editor. Oh well, the acquiring of wisdom is always painful. By the way, Imogene, what's this we hear about Bernard and you in the moonlight, listening to the bullfrogs . . . sounds interesting . . . tell us more . . .

Superwomen — several of the dorm gals have sent home for their vitamin pills — it's easier than lifting weights. The deacon is still mourning over his lost love, but he isn't letting any grass grow under foot, is he, Barbara? Didya see Clem and Mickey putting Bluebird together—wonder if it'll be the same again?

Doris Davis really celebrated, the night of her birthday. Incidentally, we hear that Doris has suddenly taken a new interest in music. Hmm . . . Shirley has been hounding the mail-man for the last two weeks. Won't someone please write soon (Pd. Adv.—S. M.) Is it the army or the navy, Shirley or could it be a young intern? Tell us, don't keep us in suspense!

Dear Flossie H.,

Why don't you give us a chance?

Regretfully (he's) yours,
Signed, the freshman girls.

Edith really got her dander up the other day when the girls locked her shoes in the gym. Only it wasn't funny, 'cause the girls were locked in, too, and yours truly was one of them.

We close with this cheerful note—at least Grandpa and Grandma never had to worry about how to make two gallons of gas stretch over a whole week, or how to make that last pair of silk last for the duration!!

Overheard one evening—

VERA: I hope they don't campus me this week.

DON: You know what I'm goin' ta do if they do?

VERA: No—what?

DON: Nothin—

Inner Sanctum

What a task! I stand there and gaze at my victims, which seem to be daring me to touch them. Well, this job has to be done, so I take courage and rolling up my sleeves, begin my distasteful duty.

Did you ever see so many misfigured, ill-shapen things? And they wear the most awful colors too. BUT I will remedy that for the first thing to do is to skin them. That isn't hard, and it won't take long, so I begin with great speed.

My victims are all shapes and sizes. Some are short and fat, others are long and startlingly skinny. Some of them have knobs here and there and all in all they are ugly and look very tired.

Next, these eyes which have been staring at me must be removed. Grabbing a knife, I go to work on them, cutting each one out and leaving my poor victims eyeless. Gruesome, isn't it?

Now each victim must undergo a process of dissection and be cut into many small pieces. But there, I must not let it get me down. Soon the job will be done. They do look quite different than they did a few minutes ago, don't they? Ah! just look at their lovely white, creamy faces. There are a few specks of green scattered here and there. That, of course, adds glamour to my once ugly, ill shapen, but now lovely and alluring victims, POTATOES!

I. Q. Test

A little lad whose parents were worried about his intelligence quotient was taken to a specialist.

"If I cut off one of your ears what would happen?" the specialist asked.

"I couldn't hear."

"If I cut off both your ears?"

"I couldn't see."

A bad case, thought the expert.

"And why couldn't you see?" he persisted.

"Because," said the boy, "my hat would fall over my eyes."

Freshmen Acquire Bruin

Bruin Junior, that little bear who has a habit of turning up unexpectedly, put in his appearance—quite unexpectedly—Thursday morning, ably escorted by Post Graduate students, George Bales and George Smith.

Members of all classes participated in the brief battle for his possession with the freshmen, who were most ably represented, coming out as victors and made their escape with him.

Freshmen's Ten Ways To Disinterest Women

1. Always be comparing them with your mother or former girl friends, if any.

2. Talk about spark plugs and carburetors when your date would rather hear something more romantic, or at any rate, a little more understandable.

3. Constantly criticize any and everything.

4. Just plain rushing things.

5. Monopolize the conversation by singing your own praises.

6. Develop a super-smooth and lengthy line that the girls know has served you well with every other girl you have ever dated.

7. Become a fashion expert on your girl's clothes and expect her to follow your suggestions.

8. Criticize their hats and hair do's and expect them to like it.

9. Purloin a ribbon at random.

10. Cave man tactics on dates, and life in general.

Freshmen's Ten Ways To Disinterest Men

1. Always be late for dates.

2. Too super a paint job.

3. Choose handbags resembling fishing sloops or schooners and expect your man to carry them for you.

4. Never cease a steady flow of "Baby Talk."

5. Be careless about color combinations, and don't be surprised at the reaction.

6. Let him know you're out to get him—"Mountie" style.

7. Frequently straighten his tie and dust him off.

8. Tell him, over and over, how wonderful Joe was and expect him to like it.

9. After one date, make him fear you own him.

10. Always tell other girls how hard it is to get rid of him.

Quakerettes End Season Splitting Wins With Linfield

The Quakerettes in an air tight defense showed the surprising speed for their fourth game of the season, on the Linfield floor, March 2.

At the end of the first half, P. C. led by a score of 30-15, and each team came back to the floor determined to defeat the other. The final score was 35-38 in the Quakerettes' favor. Charlotte Macy was high point man.

The Quakerettes wound up their basketball season last Wednesday afternoon, March 16, dropping a hard-fought game to Linfield with a final score of 18-20.

This return game, played on our floor, was the fifth game of the season. It was an exceedingly fast game in which the Linfield girls struggled to the lead in the final quarter.

Substitutions: Pacific, Marx. Linfield, Winther and Mandigo.

Two of Pacific's regular players, Mildred Haworth and Charlotte Macy, were unable to play.

Juniors Entertain Seniors at Banquet

In the spring a young man's fancy fondly turns to thoughts of . . . the Junior-Senior banquet. Friday evening, March 27, was the date of this gala event, held in the dining hall of the dormitory.

Hershel Thornburg, the toastmaster, gave the welcoming speech. Jack Willcuts, the senior class president, the response. "The Brown Bird," a beautiful vocal number, was rendered by Evangeline Marx, after which Mr. Allen gave a brief speech.

Joyce Perisho then favored the group with a vocal solo, Mr. Carey spoke upon the topic, "In the spring a young man's fancy . . ." Arthur Roberts, the last speaker, used as his subject "Fair Weather." The final number of this enjoyable program was a violin solo by Terrel Repp. He was accompanied by Mrs. Repp.

The dining hall was beautifully decorated in an early spring motif of daffodils and other spring flowers.

M. A. A. Elects Officers

The Men's Athletic Association met last week to elect officers for the coming year. Quincy Fodge was elected President; Bernard Landreth was named Vice-President, and Roger Minthorne was chosen as Secretary-Treasurer.

Shower for Bride-Elect

Florence Swanson, bride-elect, was honored by a beautiful bridal shower given for her by Shirley Carter and Kathleen Repp in the parlor at Canyon Hall, March 10th.

The room was beautifully decorated with clever arrangements of sweet peas and daffodils, the main feature of which was a tiny scene arranged with flowers, of a miniature bride and groom entering the church.

Florence received many lovely and useful gifts from her many friends and school mates who were present.

After several parlor games, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Geraldine Tharrington and Eleanor Fowler poured tea for the group.

Florence will become the bride of David Thomas during the month of April. The wedding date has not yet been revealed.

MISS BAINTER DIRECTS PLAY

Miss Evelyn Bainter, who is directing the play "Marcheta," is a graduate of Pacific University, Forest Grove, where she was active in dramatics. Miss Bainter, librarian at Newberg Union High School, is assisted in the directing of the play by Charlotte Macy, Dramatics manager for the Pacific College Student Body, and Prof. Lewis Hoskins, teacher of speech and faculty advisor to student dramatics.

DRAMATICS CLUB ASSISTS

P. C.'s new speech and dramatics club, with Paul Thornburg as its president, has played an important role in the production of "Marcheta."
